

Award winning science —

The Sixtus Award goes to Purview

เราไม่แน่ใจหรอกว่าจริง ๆ แล้วที่เราสามารถทำแบบนี้ได้มัน
จะทำได้ไปอีกนานเท่าไร

Our Lab has synthesized the most elements of them all.

— Prof. Herzog

The Sixtus Award is a prestigious recognition given to institutions that have demonstrated exceptional performance in chemical research. The award is named after the renowned chemist Sixtus Leung, who made significant contributions to the field of organic chemistry.

This achievement is a testament to the hard work, dedication, and passion of our faculty, students, and staff. Our department has consistently produced groundbreaking research that has contributed to the advancement of the field of chemistry, and we're honored to receive this recognition.

Guest lecture from Dr. Elizabeth Lee

Elizabeth Lee, a leading researcher in the field of biochemistry, spoke about her recent work on the development of new cancer treatments using small molecule inhibitors, and the lecture was very well-attended by both students and faculty.

In case you missed it, there's a recording on EDGARP

Safety first

Next Tuesday, there will be a Lab Safety Training.

The award will be presented to our department in a formal ceremony that will take place on May 15th, 2023. We encourage all members of our department to join us in celebrating this achievement.

Another Success

Aliquam sit amet lectus ut libero congue viverra. Morbi quis diam ullamcorper, iaculis ex non, fermentum mauris. Aliquam consectetur vitae purus vitae laoreet. Sed elementum ligula et mauris eleifend dignissim.

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Donec ultrices, dolor molestie viverra interdum, nibh urna dignissim nisi, et rhoncus libero nibh a nulla. Etiam ac augue vel leo vehicula finibus at non tortor.

These trainings are crucial for ensuring that all members of the department are equipped with the necessary knowledge and skills to work safely in the laboratory. Attendance is mandatory.